

Discover Design in South Beach
Florida International University's Summer Program
June 9-20, 2014

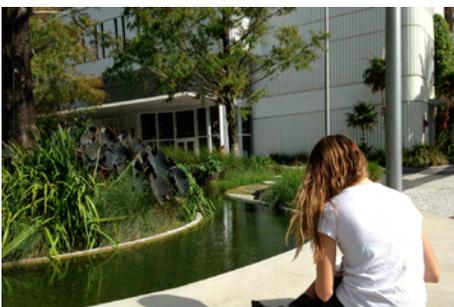

DD@SoBe is a two-week summer program that provides an intense and enjoyable introduction to architecture and the related disciplines of landscape and interior architecture. The program takes advantage of the rich cultural context of our studios on Miami Beach's famous Lincoln Road by using the city as a laboratory in which to study the relationships between design and the built environment. Participants spend a considerable portion of each day working on design projects, and engage in group discussions with faculty from FIU's Department of Architecture. Guest lectures by prominent local practitioners and visits to offices enhance the learning experience, and guided tours of significant local architecture and urban design projects demonstrate the impact of design on our world.

While this program is designed for students of all ages, it will be of great benefit to those who plan to prepare a portfolio for admission to a professional program.

- Monday, June 9 through Friday, June 20, 2014.
- Program cost: $495 per person includes tours, admissions, and materials.
- Program cost does not include housing, meals, or transportation.
- Program limited to 30 participants.

$250 non-refundable deposits for the program are due by April 21, with the remaining program fee due on May 1. If you have any interest in the program and would like to get more details, please contact Professor David Rifkind at david.rifkind@fiu.edu.

A limited number of scholarships provided by The GrowLight Project, with funding from the College of Architecture + The Arts and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation
